

Anna Cullhed är professor i litteraturvetenskap vid Stockholms universitet. Hennes forskning behandlar svensk och europeisk poetik och retorik från 1600-tal till 1800-tal och svensk litteratur från samma tidsperiod – intresseområden som i sin tur leder vidare till historiografiska frågor. För närvarande arbetar hon med det RJ-finansierade projektet "Moving Medea: The Transcultural Stage in the Eighteenth Century", som kombinerar spatial teori med ett genusperspektiv. Email: anna.cullhed@littvet.su.se.

Ralf Hemmingsen, Dr. Med., has been Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Copenhagen since 1995, and was Head of Department of Psychiatry E, Bispebjerg Hospital 1986–2002. He has published numerous scientific papers about clinical and neurobiological aspects of schizophrenia and organic psychoses. A further focus has been on concepts within psychopathology, and this author has edited several textbooks of general clinical psychiatry. He is currently working with concepts of psychopathology, historically, diagnostically and in the context of teaching clinical psychiatry. Email: rph@sund.ku.dk.

Eli Løfaldli is Associate Professor of English Literature at the Department of Language and Literature, Norwegian University of Science and Technology (NTNU). Her work has centred on various forms of appropriation, adaptation and translation in and of eighteenth-century literary and non-literary texts. She is currently working on projects on the appropriation of eighteenth-century autobiographical and biographical material and the integration of translation theory and adaptation theory. Email: eli.lofaldli@ntnu.no.

Tine Reeh is Associate Professor of Church History at the University of Copenhagen. She became Dr.Theol. in 2012 on a dissertation on the nexus between Christianity and culture in the twentieth century. She is currently working with transformations of Christianity in the eighteenth century, with particular interest in concepts of subjectivity, secularization, historiography, the reception of Martin Luther's theology and historical readings of biblical texts. Email: trr@teol.ku.dk.

Panu Savolainen is a Ph.D. in history and a postdoctoral researcher at the University of Turku. His research focuses on themes of material culture, architecture and urban space from the seventeenth to the nineteenth century. He has published several articles and books about eighteenth-century urban history and spatial culture. Email: panu.savolainen@utu.fi.

Henrik Ågren är professor i historia vid Uppsala universitet. Hans forskning berör främst social- och kulturhistoriska frågor under svenskt 1600- och 1700-tal. Föreliggande studie har kommit till inom projektet Se ståndssambället! finansierat av Riksbankens Jubileumsfonds stödform Forskning om förmodernitet. Det är den andra av tre planerade artiklar. Den första är publicerad i Scandinavian Journal of History 2017. Email: henrik.agren@hist.uu.se.

Other Contributors

Professor Bertil van Boer, Bellingham;
PhD Elena Dahlberg, Calgary;
PhD Candidate Alexander Engström,
Uppsala;

PhD Candidate Gustaf Fryksén, Lund;
PhD Juha-Matti Granqvist, Helsinki;
Guðmundur Jónsson, Reykjavik;
PhD Eva Krause Jørgensen, Aarhus;
PhD Johannes Ljungberg, Lund;
Professor Elisabeth Mansén, Stockholm;
Associate Professor Viðar Pálsson, Reykjavik;
Professor Göran Rydén, Uppsala;
Professor Erling Sandmo, Oslo;
PhD Øystein Lydik Idsø Viken, Volda;
Professor Andrew Wawn, Leeds;
Professor Charlotta Wolff, Turku;
Associate Professor Andreas Önnersfors,
Göteborg.